Millions of Acres of Arable Land are Available for Settlement

During the past couple of months, conflicting statements regarding the available acreage of good farming land within a radius of fifteen miles of existing railroads in western Canada have been made, and though the matter of five or six thousand acres in a total of approximately 30,000,000 at this stage of settlement, is not one of great importance, it is of considerable interest. Col. J. S. Dennis, addressing the Alberta Industrial Congress, placed it at 3,000,000 acres, the Western Canada Colonization Association in their recent announcements at twenty million; while Mayor Brown, of Medicine Hat, in his speech to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, returns it at 25,000,000; and other authorities range from 20 to 35. It is of particular interest to refer, then, that one of the ablest statisticians, and best-known oil-timers in the west, Mr. William Pearce, places the figure at 30,000,000, and in working out these figures he has produced some interesting data on the acreage under cultivation in the prairie provinces. They are as follows: In the years of residence in the West and first-hand knowledge of the country, and in this respect, probably, Mr. Pearce, as a surveyor, geologist, statistician and business man, is better acquainted with the whole of these provinces than any other single individual.

The method adopted to determine the quantity was as follows: Taking the area within 15 miles of already established railways lines and those which will probably be constructed within the near future, and using a permanent prepared soil time ago, the federal electoral districts were taken as a unit to show the total population; the area available for settlement; the area cultivated; the number of acres cultivated; and the population per farm, etc. Having that data, the next step was to prepare maps showing all the land open for settlement outside of the 15-mile radius. Ascertaining that, by subtracting it from the total, the balance is the land available for settlement within the 15-mile radius.

The next step was to find out how many settlers, as given in the census, were residing on land outside of the 15-mile radius. This is absolutely no reliable data from which this could accurately determine the number to table 25 in the census of 1916, where information is furnished by the municipalities, a close approximation could be obtained. But, it was noted that the boundaries of said municipalities are not continuous with those of the federal constituencies, and in many cases not with the county boundaries. To correct this, therefore would have involved a much greater amount of labor than the statement of absolute accuracy borders warranted, so it was assumed that every settler would have 320 acres of land, and that the percentage of the interior homesteaded farms, showing the lands which are now patented, and which, of course, must have been entered and registered on the date of the Census, there is no doubt that it is sufficiently close for the purpose required.

Having estimated them, they were compared with those in the census of each federal constituency, which indicated the number of settlers residing within the 15-mile radius, and allowing for each settler an area of 320 acres, for reasons hereinbefore stated, give the area occupied within this radius.

The next question was what percentage of those lands available would likely be settled. That involved a decision on which of course there may be very great difference in opinion. By setting it meant, would probably be settled upon within the next 10 or 20 years. The lesser percentage remaining to be settled in the older constituencies, of course, the less would be settled, from the fact that the lands left were not the most desirable tracts, and it is particularly noticeable in the percentages given for Manitoba, that is the very best constituencies so far at least as grain growing lands are concerned, and the percentage of that available for settlement that will be so settled is placed very low.

Examining the constituencies in Saskatchewan are placed as high as 90 percent and five at 80 percent. This favorable showing regarding Saskatchewan in the north, as settlement is extended outside of the 15-mile radius, Manitoba averages 30.5 percent, Saskatchewan 70.01 percent, and Alberta 37.0 percent of the land available for settlement that will probably be so settled.

There are two other elements in connection with the percentages that have to be considered. One is in the way of muskeg, sloughs, etc., and another what is called the semi-arid portions of the country, such as Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, etc., etc. They had to be placed low on account of deficiency in rainfall. It will be noticed, however, that in those constituencies the most arid of the lands are outside of the 15-mile belt.

There is one thing to be borne in mind in connection with that phase, and that is where any considerable area of land can be irrigated, as there is no doubt it will be in the near future, by reason of the increased production of the irrigated portions, the district as a whole would support a larger population than those portions which are not irrigated, and irrigation would not be beneficial.

In Manitoba, the number of acres cultivated per farm varies from 1600 to 6000. In Saskatchewan, the number of acres cultivated per farm varies from 1600 to 6000. In Alberta, the number of acres cultivated per farm varies from 1600 to 6000.

Resources of Saskatchewan

Inventory of Natural Wealth of the Province Given by Experts

Because the conference was of the opinion that there is need of a system of irrigation in this province, the Saskatchewan branch of the Canadian Society of Engineers passed a resolution asking the government to institute a survey for this purpose. The conference was attended by engineers from all the principal cities of Saskatchewan.

"Natural Resources of Saskatchewan," was the subject of a paper by R. W. E. Loucks, surveyors department of the Land Titles office, Regina. Dealing first with the soil, the speaker pointed out that out of 94 million acres suited to agriculture only 20 million acres at the present time were cultivated. Then, briefly outlining the geological formation of the soil, the speaker dealt with the amount of crops produced. In 1915 the total wheat crop exceeded in value the total gold output in the entire world of the same year. There was no doubt that the soil was the greatest natural resource of this province.

That the great forests between the Saskatchewan and Churchill Rivers were of immense value to the province, yielding four cords per acre, was the belief of the speaker. The timber the white spruce was the most valuable. To preserve our timber, the speaker pointed out that the outstanding point of the speakers subsequent remarks.

Examination of the geological formation of the northern part of the province indicated great mineral wealth. Lignite coal has been found outcropping in various parts of the province, and through the use of the briquette plants we would have our fuel problem partially solved. It was also pointed out that the abundance of lignite briquettes gave us a by-product, and this added to our water power, would offer the power question for us as a province.

Fire clay can be found in our province, which will enable us to manufacture nearly all the clay products we need. Terra cotta is one of the probable resources. This fact was stressed by Mr. Loucks, who mentioned that the terra cotta can be got by clay products quickly enough, and, therefore, believed that here was an opportunity for advancing our industries.

The speaker also referred to the stone and magnesium salts that are found in the west, and in the province, and also upon the vast fishing business which will be built up as soon as transportation facilities are improved. These fisheries are in the northern parts and also are some fine beaches and natural resorts, according to the speaker.

The story of the great northland from 1879 to the present was the theme of W. T. Thompson, of the University of Saskatchewan. He told of the early days of settlement, and of the fact that in 1879, and in the Peace River country as early as 1882.

The Hudson Bay route was feasible and would be of great benefit to the West is the belief of Mr. Thompson. To uphold his contention, he used statistics showing that the route would lessen a transportation over land from Saskatoon to Liverpool by 1,142 miles. The water distance from Port Nelson to Montreal to the British Isles is practically the same, but Regina and Calgary would save 1,028 and 1,154 miles, respectively by the building of the Hudson Bay route.

The complaint that it was not an open season for the game in the months was doubted. At least it can be used for four months, and by the use of the Strait of Cribbing it is possible to extend the season to six months. Thus, with these facts, Mr. Mackenzie said he did not think it was the "pink hole" that had been claimed by Eastern people.

Weed Seeds Spoil Land for Years

May Remain Dormant For Five or Six Years and Then Germinate

"There is an old adage," says Prof. Leach, of the Colorado Agricultural College, "that one year of weeds means ten years of clean land." There is more truth than poetry in this saying. A crop of seeds is born, and the weeds begin to grow. If the conditions are favorable, others may remain dormant for a year or two, and still others may remain dormant for five or six years, and then germinate. Will it not pay to keep the weed seed out of our fields?"

Lesson Canada Must Learn

Save From "Fat" Years to Tide Over "Lean" Ones

Canada must take a lesson from the pages of history if the Dominion's great agricultural regions in the west are to continue in successful operation indefinitely—a lesson of learning how to save from the "fat" years to tide over the "lean" ones.

That was one of the solutions of the agricultural welfare of the country offered by Professor John Bracken, the newly appointed principal of the Manitoba Agricultural College, Winnipeg, to the members of the commission on conservation in conference on soil fertility and soil better.

"There are years in Western Canada," said Prof. Bracken, "when, in spite of anything that can be done, crops will fail. We must overcome this problem by saving from the 'fat' years to tide over the 'lean' years. We must save seed, straw and money."

"That has been the method of successful agricultural nations ever since the world began. We will do well to learn the lesson."

Prof. Bracken told the 100 members of the commission that the state's future cannot be left to the individual—especially the state's agricultural future.

It is the business of the state to conserve the state's future—not the business of the individual. If Canada, through this commission, takes the lesson, the individual will follow.

In his address on "cropping systems for drought areas," Prof. Bracken pointed out the best methods of offsetting the detrimental effects of the water shortage.

"The wealth of a dry country," he asserted, "is not determined by the amount of land there or the amount of water left, but by the amount of water stored. We should plan to have a surplus of water in the dry years, and to have it in the wet years."

A Gun With a History

Famous British Gun That Took Part In Many Notable Engagements

Though it is not everybody that can make a part of a big gun, visitors to the Imperial War Museum (to be opened at land there will be a Crystal Palace) will be surprised to find how these munitions of war can be individualized. Every notable gun has its history set forth in a frame. In precise detail we shall be told of its record of adventures, and the names and exploits of the men who have done with it. The effort is almost to impart a human soul—or at least an animal vivacity—to a huge machine. "Mother of battles," a giant howitzer, is one of these individualized guns. Another is the fighter gun which fired the first round in the battle of Britain on the western front, and after being first round in the subsequent advance, in the first battle of Ypres; was engaged against the German offensive of March, 1918, and in the final "dash" through, and then was present at the occupation of German towns. It was, as usual, disabled, but was mended; never needed much other repair and bore itself like a stalwart from start to finish. Who can help feeling very friendly towards such a gun—London Times.

Reindeer Farm in the Arctic

Steinbock Is Granted Grazing Lease in the Far North

A portion of the southern half of Baffin Island, south of parallel 66 degrees north latitude, including a strip 10 miles wide along the northern boundary of Lake Neuvang, is to be leased to Vilhjalmur Steinbock, Canadian Arctic explorer, for the purpose of grazing herds of reindeer and musk oxen, as the projectors will pay an annual rental of $11,500 years, with a period of renewal not to exceed 20 years to be provided for.

This is authorized in an order-in-council gazetted this week. Mr. Steinbock will be given free grazing privileges for 15 years, after which he will pay an annual rental of $11,500. Mr. Steinbock has replied to the government that he has interested himself in the project as a means of his firm belief of the reindeer project.

Alberta Has Made Good Provision for Agricultural Education

Alberta is now the possessor of six provincial schools of agriculture. These schools are located at the towns of Vermilion, Yorkton, Olds, Gleichen, Claresholm and Raymond.

The object of the agricultural schools cannot be better expressed than in the words of the Hon. Duncan Marshall, provincial minister of agriculture, whose efforts are to a great extent responsible for the efficiency of agricultural education in Alberta. He states:

"The object of agriculture has been established specially to give the farmer's son and the farmer's daughter that type of education which will better fit them for their business in life; that of agriculture."

"The main object of the instruction in these schools is to give the students such knowledge and practical skill will enable them to make farming a more pleasant and more profitable occupation. In the preparation of the students, the board of agricultural education has kept the practical end in view, viz., the training of the student in the art of farming; nevertheless, it has not been

Hospital Facilities in Alberta

Drumheller Has the Largest Municipal Hospital in Alberta

The largest municipal district hospital in Alberta was just being opened at Drumheller. For some time past every effort has been made to get this hospital opened, and the result of the organization of the district covering 33 townships or over 20,000 acres.

The hospital has at present accommodation for 42 patients. It is pleasantly situated on the banks of the Red Deer River on the outskirts of the town of Drumheller about 60 miles northwest of Calgary. With up-to-date equipment and careful attention, to detail in the finishing and fittings, it is unusually well equipped for a small hospital, and around the inner interest of the visitors who inspected it at the opening ceremony.

In the basement, besides the heating plant, main kitchen and laundry, there is an X-ray room and a disinfecting room. Aside from the main floor and waiting room on each floor, this floor and the second floor are similar, each having a diet kitchen and several lavatories and baths with the necessary plumbing. With the majority have only one bed to a room, a number have two or three. There is a closed sun-room on the second floor, where patients may sit, and as the incinerator and the fumigating room which the hospital contains. The equipment is all very up-to-date.

Replace Obsolete Vessels

Niobe, Rainbow and Grisle Are Advertised for Sale

Advertising by the naval service department for the sale of the cruisers Niobe, Rainbow and Grisle, marks the end of the Laurier navy as such. The two ships first mentioned were the nucleus of the Canadian navy, afterwards the Grisle was added.

The vessels, largely used for training purposes, are regarded as obsolete and they are to be replaced by the two cruisers, two destroyers and two submarines presented by the imperial admiralty. These ships will come out in September. Commander Howe, R.N., is now in England arranging for the transfer.

The two submarines which were purchased in 1914, and which were taken to British Columbia waters, will also be sold and replaced by the admiralty craft.

Turning to the Newspapers

General advertising, formerly a matter of billboards and of magazines, is turning more and more to the newspaper, as a medium. H. H. Elias, secretary of the Wisconsin Daily League, told members of that organization at a recent convention that advertisers are realizing more and more the advantages the newspaper holds over any other medium, and it results in the public daily in all localities, he said.

Success spells failure for some and failure spells success for others.

W. N. U. 125

forgot that agriculture is a science as well as an art of business, and that it is highly important that the men entering the profession of agriculture have a basis of training in science.

"Every progressive country in the world is recognizing the necessity of giving its youth and girls the best possible educational advantages as a preparation for whatever occupation in life they will follow. The government of the province of Alberta is establishing these schools recognizes that special educational facilities should be provided for that large proportion of the population which must naturally engage in the greatest profession in the province."

"With the assistance and co-operation of the farmers these schools of agriculture are doing a wide and important work, besides simply giving instruction in the classroom. They have become centres where problems of soil and livestock are worked out, where experiments are tried and theories are proven, and where the practical co-operation of the farmers of the province may learn not only from the teachers, but from the experience of others as well."

Ideal Conditions for Hay and Pasture

Conditions All Over Alberta Stated To Be Exceptionally Good

Ideal conditions for stock pasture for the late season and fall have been over the whole of Alberta. "There is no doubt that Alberta will be a hay exporting province, and the results of the organization of the district covering 33 townships or over 20,000 acres. The hay crop will come from the southern part of the province, and the conditions from north to south are ideal, but in the south the rain has made a little late to insure a liberal yield. So far as the south is concerned, however, the supply will be amply augmented by roughage from the grain crop, and the increased area under irrigation will account for an increase in the supply of first-class alfalfa and timothy hay."

In the north the hay crop will be unexceptionally good and will not only supply any part of the province where there may be some slight shortage, but will leave a great quantity available for export to other parts of the country.

Future of Canada

Financial Magazine Speaks in glowing Terms of Canada's Prospects

D. C. Macarow, manager of the Merchants Bank of Canada, interviewed on his arrival in London, on the subject of the future of the prospects of the Dominion. He said that in labor, immigration and the development of the interior, the outlook was highly hopeful. "The untimely radicalism was giving way to a spirit of healthy goodwill and co-operative effort. The necessary kind of settlements were being drawn from western United States and the probability of abundant harvests gave reason to expect that immediate difficulties in the money market would be overcome. The Times, editorially commenting on the interview, says that all this is good hearing and breathes a spirit of quiet optimism, which is a marked feature at the present moment of the attitude of the people of this country. As to the growing fraternity with the United States, the Times thinks that, in view of the large American investment in Canada, and the absorption by the farms in Western Canada, this tendency is of the highest importance."

Some blame it on prohibition; others attribute it to some other cause. The necessary kind of settlements were being drawn from western United States and the probability of abundant harvests gave reason to expect that immediate difficulties in the money market would be overcome. The Times, editorially commenting on the interview, says that all this is good hearing and breathes a spirit of quiet optimism, which is a marked feature at the present moment of the attitude of the people of this country. As to the growing fraternity with the United States, the Times thinks that, in view of the large American investment in Canada, and the absorption by the farms in Western Canada, this tendency is of the highest importance."

In Japan tea is practically a religion. There are special ceremonies in connection with it and special holidays in which it is drunk.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1920

Tom Bassoff, the Crows' Nest Pass lander, has been committed for trial at the September term of court at Macleod. The third lander is still at large.

A couple of weeks ago the Dominion government sent an agent here to tell us we must collect business and luxury taxes. This week the provincial government has had a man here telling us we must all pay our telephone bills hereafter. Verily in these after the war days life is just one damned thing after another.

Ex-members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, who are entitled to and who require post-discharge dental treatment, must submit their applications to the District Dental Officer at the headquarters of the district in which they reside, on or before September 1st, 1920. Applications for dental treatment received after that date will not be considered.

Rev. "Bob" Pearson made it very clear on Sunday evening last in his address on "The Referendum," just what the Prohibition forces expect to accomplish by a favorable vote on the proposal to prohibit importation of and inter-provincial traffic in liquor for beverage purposes. He laid great stress on the promise of Premier Stewart given on behalf of his government that a big majority vote in favor of the prohibition proposal would be taken by the government of Alberta as a mandate from the people to make, the province absolutely bone dry—that is to enact a law absolutely prohibiting the manufacture, importation, exportation, sale, purchase, possession, use as a beverage, use as a medicine, for scientific purposes, or for any purpose whatever, of alcohol or alcoholic liquors within this province. Rev. Pearson made it clear that in his opinion the fruition of Premier Stewart's promise would be by far the greatest result of a favorable vote on the proposal. He was not at all convinced that the Prohibitionists will have no organized opposition in the campaign. Said he knows personally of one man in Calgary working for pay in the liquor interests and had heard of another man in Calgary likewise engaged. He reminded the women that in this province their right to the ballot will be exactly the same as the right of the men, and urged all to vote without fail.

Claresholm Local News

Tuesday's high wind did some damage to grain.

Mrs. J. A. Harrison and children visited relatives at High River last week.

"The Right to Happiness" coming to the Rex Theater on September 24 and 25.

Miss Hall held the winning number in the G.W.V.A. drawing for the team of horses.

R. K. Peck and family returned on Monday from Lake Windermere, Bant and other mountain resorts.

David High, the freight agent at the C. P. R., has gone away for his holidays. He is supposed to be travelling on the Ponoka trail.

The Wednesday half holidays are over here for this season. So the numerous farmers who have come to town on Wednesdays for supplies and had to go home without them can be sure of finding the stores open every day again.

Frank Mayo in "The Girl in No. 29," coming to the Rex Theater Friday and Saturday, August 27 and 28. A sprightly mystery story with a liberal dash of comedy at the beginning, followed by a series of tense dramatic incidents and a return to comedy at the close. It should mystify and please.

Magnificent in its far-flung sweep from Stamboul to the boundless deserts of Arabia; magnificent in its lare and mosque scenes—still more magnificent in its wealth of human drama. A picture that lifts you out of yourself with its living, throbbing, heart appeal, surrounded by all the splendor of the East, the languor of its mysterious cities, the scenic wonders of its desert panoramas. "The Virgin of Stamboul," at the Rex Saturday night. Don't miss it.

Bowling

On Monday evening last the Odd Fellows' five pin bowling team met the K. P. team in the final of a three game tournament which resulted as follows:

Odd Fellows—	1st	2nd	3rd
C. Crawford	28	45	46
G. Stewart	40	20	31
Dr. Stewart	47	61	53
R. E. Moffatt	38	45	31
A. E. Strange	41	37	32
	194	208	193
Total score	595

T. Dodds	17	20	25
O. D. Walker	31	55	44
A. Swain	38	66	44
S. Lamb	57	88	55
	172	264	216
Total score	652

Total win for the K. P.s 57 pins.

There were a large number of spectators and everybody enjoyed the game. Owing to the fact that the auctioneer and clerk had been busy practicing for stocking the K. P.s had an easy win.
